The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Buteau (U.S. Patent 6,442,557).

The reasons for this rejection were set forth in the office action of March 10, 2006 and are hereby incorporated by reference.

Remarks

Applicant's amendments have overcome the previously applied rejections under 35 USC 101. The only outstanding rejection is the rejection of claims 1-24 under 35 USC 102(e) as being anticipated by Buteau.

With respect to the analysis of claim 1, applicant argues that the examiner has interpreted two different structures as being the same the same feature, namely, the "syntax pattern" as being both query results and the query itself. This interpretation is not correct, but can be addressed by additional remarks. The syntax pattern selector module is the database program (col. 22, line 33 associated with discussion of FIG. 9) which generates the SQL standard query shown in FIG. 9. The SQL standard query shown in FIG. 9 is the selected syntax pattern selected by the program. The desired functions are simply commands set forth in the query, such as SELECT, FROM and WHERE.

Art Unit: 2164

Applicant argues that the syntax pattern is the same as the desired data set. This interpretation is not entirely correct. The syntax pattern in the pattern of text syntax used in the query of FIG. 9. The “desired data set” is so broad that it may in fact be reasonably interpreted as being the query itself, as applicant suggests, or alternatively could be interpreted as the search result set generated by executing the query of FIG. 9, in which case, it is not the query itself.

With respect to claim 21, applicant argues that Buteau does not teach any manner of compilation. However, this argument contradicts the language invoked in claim 21. Claim 21 does not include a requirement for compilation, but in fact excludes the requirement for compilation by invoking a negative limitation (“does not need to be recompiled”). Since Buteau does not contain any requirement for recompilation, it meets the negative limitation of not having such a requirement.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
